

Teachers learn CPR at workshop

BCEHS Superintendent Norene Parke (shown in photo below with six of the seven teachers who took the training) and medical consultant, Dr. John Farwell, taught the teachers, who can now teach their students the fundamentals of CPR and defibrillator use.

The Royal Bank of BC donated almost $5,000 worth of equipment to the school. Together the Advanced Coronary Treatment (ACT) Foundation and BCEHS paramedics have trained more than 200,000 BC high school students in CPR and AED use, thereby empowering them to be first in the chain of survival in a cardiac arrest.

For more information on the ACT Foundation, please visit their website.

intranet.bcas.ca/

Block C, 2261 Keating Cross Road, Saanichton, B.C. V8M 2A5

This email was created and delivered using Industry Mailout